

Nanotechnology Industry Workshop

Sponsored by the Center for Nanoscale Science and Technology at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Friday May 9, 2003

7 a.m. – 5:15 p.m.

Levis Faculty Center

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Purpose

Nanotechnology applications will lead to fundamental changes in how we live and interact with our environment. Academia, industry, and policy makers must collaborate on fundamental research and the commercialization of patentable ideas, processes, and products to harness nanotechnology's full potential. This workshop is designed to provide a forum for industry interaction and collaboration.

Keynote Address

The Many Nanotechnology Initiatives and their Potential Impact to Science and Technology

Jim Murday, Director, National Nanotechnology Coordination Office, and Acting Chief Scientist, Office of Naval Research

Presentations

Caterpillar, DuPont, General Electric, Kraft Foods, National Institute of Standards and Technology, and UIUC faculty

Registration

Registration is required and will be confirmed by email. There is no fee for registrants, but seating is limited so please register early. Register online at <http://kermit.cen.uiuc.edu/cnst.htm>
